The Cabinet on a Pleasure Trip-Dir of-the-Mint Burchard Suspended-The Austrian Mission. [Hy telegraph to the Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretary Whitney chartered a local steamer and took the President and members of the Cabinet and a number of ladies on a pleasure-trip down the Potomac this

The President to-day suspended Horatio C. Burchard, of Illinois, as Director of the Mint, and appointed James B. Kimball, of Pennsylvania, in his stead. The change will take effect July 1st. Kimball lives at Bethlehem, Pa., where he is professor of Economic Geology in the Lehigh University. He is a mining engineer and metallurgist by profession. He was educated at Harvard University and at the Mining School of Freiberg, Saxony, receiving the degree of Ph. D. from the Univer-sity of Gottingen in 1857. He has held appointments on several State and Government surveys. During the war he served in the Army of the Potomac as assistant adjutant-general on the staff of Generals McClellan, Burnside, Hooker, and Meade successively. He is now president of the Everett Iron Company of Pennsylvania, and is well known in New York, where he has an office. He is a member of the Union, Century, and Down-Town Clubs of New York city. Mr. Burchard said to-day in regard to his suspension that he preferred that the charge should be made in that way rather than to resign in the face of the charges of inefficiency and of misman-agement which had been made against him by personal enemies, and which have been published in several newspapers. He did not dispute the President's right to remove him, but had some little curiosity to see the "reawould give to the Senate. His relatrons with Secretary Manning had al-ways been of the most pleasant charac-ter, and he regretted that a contrary impression had arisen since his remova has been spoken of. No recent instructions to remain at Vienna have been sent to United States Minister Francis shortly. After Mr. Bayard became Secretary of State he instructed Mr. Francis to remain there until his successor should arrive to as-

Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 27 .- The President to-day appointed Edward L. be collector of custo the port of New York; Hans S. Beattie surveyor of customs at New York : and Silas W. Burt naval officer of customs at New York. Edward S. Hedden, the new collector of customs of New York, was born in New York city in 1828. From 1859 until last year he was a partner in the shipping-house of Wetmore, Cryder & Co., and for thirty-five years conducted the custom-house business of the firm. He is vice-president of the North-River Bank, and a director in several insurance companies. He has always been a Democrat in politics. His father studied law with Alexander Hamilton, and was a representative of New York city on the occasion of the opening of the Erie canal. H. S. Beattie, the surveyor of customs, is a lawyer, and was an associate in the corporation counsel's office during Secretary Whitney's term. He has been an active man in the County Democracy organization, is at present deputy county clerk of New York, and has always been a Democrat.

Colonel Silas W. Burt, the naval officer, was formerly naval officer, and was removed by President Arthur. He is at present chief examiner of the New York Civil-Service Commission. supported Cleveland for Governor in 1882, and was an active supporter of the Democratic candidates last fall. The term of Graham would not expire until 1887, but he is suspended term because the President believes sound public policy requires a re-organization of the whole customs service at the port of New York, and deems a complete new organization essential to the proposed change of GENERAL GRANT.

He Meets with a Set-Back and Passes Wretched Night. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

MOUNT MCGREGOR, N. Y., June 27 .- The apprehensions of Dr. Douglas that General Grant might have to pay for his recent rally have already been partly met. The General passed a wretched night. Mucus accumulations began to gather after midnight, and he was scarcely free from coughing and unusual pain until daylight. Dr. Douglas relieved him for a little while by the treatment administered at o'elock this morning and again at o'clock, but his sleep was badly broken until after his morning nourishment was served, which quieted him. He has been awake since 10 o'clock, but is much weaker than yesterday, and is too languid to care to leave his room. No special alarm is felt by this set-back. family think the sultry day an important agent in depressing him, and are not yet disposed to think a reaction has set in. He will be watched with extra care to-day, to preclude, if pos-sible, the assertion of further unfavorable symptoms.

As the day closes it may be said that there has been since Friday evening an arrest of improvement in the General's condition. This has been a day of weakness, induced by causes already referred to. Dr. Douglas, however, anticipates a night of rest for his pa-

Preparing for the Indian Campaign.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.]
TUCSON, ARI., June 27.—General
Crook has been busily engaged for the past few days in refitting and preparing the Indian campaign in the Sierra Madres, and is about ready to start for that locality.

It is officially stated that the campain will be conducted as follows: General Crook, with scouts and infantry, will enter the Sierra Madre mountains and endeavor to kill or captuse Gerinomo and his followers. Should they escape him and attempt to return to the reservations in Arizona or New Mexico, they will be intercepted by the cavalry, which will be sta-tioned slong the line. The troops will camp at the different water-holes along line between Fort Huachuca an Silver creek, so that the entire line will be guarded.

James D. Fish Goes for Ten Years.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, June 27.—James D. Fish, late president of the Marine Na-tional Bank, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Auburn prison this morning by Judge Benedict in the United States Court.

PHILADELPHIA. June 27.—The outbwark Mills shot down to-day, wowing about 1,000 persons out of apployment. The group of mills are abut-hown of Wa owned by M. A. Furbush & Son, and One group consists of card and printing-mills. About two months ago the wages of the hands were increased 16 per cent. This, however, did not give satisfaction. The hands objected to the wages paid, and intimated that they would demand a further increase. This came to the ears of the proprietors of the mills, and in order to avoid a strike they decided to shut down to-day.

A LADY TEACHER COWHIDED. the is Terribly Lucerated by an Enrage

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] WATERLOO, IOWA, June 27,-Miss Shaffer, a seventeen-year-old school-teacher at Clarksville, recently incurred the comity of a family named Forney. Thursday evening as she was returning ool she was met by Mrs. Forney and daughter. The mother caught Miss Shaffer and held her while the daughter beat her over the back and shoulders with a rawhide. The assailants continued beating until tired, and, after resting, began it again. Finally Miss Shaffer escaped and made her way home, with the blood running over her clothes from the wounds made by the whip. Mrs. Forney and daughter have been arrested. The physician who examined Miss Shaffer pronounces her breast and back in a fearful condition, and she is suffering from nervous prostration.

LYNCHBURG.

Assault Upon a Preminent Lawrer.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] LYNCHBURG, VA., June 27 .- Coniderable excitement was caused on the streets to-day by an assault on Major Thomas J. Kirkpatrick, a prominent lawyer, by Mrs. John Sherry, wife of a well-known Irishman. Major .Kirkpatrick was counsel for the defendant n a suit instituted by Mrs. Sherry's husband and his remarks gave offence Major Kirkpatrick defended himself in a dignified manner without injuring his assailant. Mrs. Sherry was before the mayor this evening, and was fined $5 and required to give bond in the sum of $250 to keep the peace.

Whiskey-A Pistol and a Dead Police man. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

WILMINGTON, BEL., June 27 .-A man named Lewis Davis, while this evening was quarrelling with his wife at their home, on Front street, and had drawn a revolver, when Policeman Andrew Pe erson entered and endeavored to quiet him, threatening to arrest him if he did not desist. Davis, without a word of warning, turned upon Peterson and shot him through the heart, killing him almost instantly. Davis then ran down the street, followed by a gathering crowd. A man named McBride attempted to stop him and was shot at twice by Davis. McBride returned the fire, but without effect. Shortly after Davis was knocked down with a brick thrown by one of his pursuers and was lodged in jail. Peterson leaves a wife and seven children.

EVIDENCE OF A FOUL MURDER. Charred Bones Found in the Woods-A Fene ful Fall-Did Not Wait for Pardon-The Crops, &c.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

RALEIGH, June 27.—Evidences of foul murder have been discovered in Henderson county. A party of men found a heap of ashes in a secluded spot, far from any habitation. It was evidently not a camp-fire. They raked away the ashes and exposed a mass of charred bones. Surgeons identified these as the bones of human beings. Inquiry was made to ascertain if any person was missing. A young white man named Rose was discovered to be missing from the farm of John Rickman. Rose was a resident of Transylvania Rose was a resident of Transylvania county, and was recently arrested in Henderson county and jailed. John Rickman hailed him out, Rose agreeing to work on his farm. Rose, while at work, was frequently visited by his brother-in-law, who lived near by. Ten days ago Rose went away clandestinely with the brother-in-law. Three days afterwards the brother-in-law. the latter returned alone, telling Rick man at first that Rose had gone to Jackson county, but when Rickman said he was going to Jackson after Rose the brother-in-law said Rose had joined the United States army, and he would never again see him. Rickman ther remembered having heard Rose say he had the advantage of his (Rickman's) brother-in-law, and unless he was "good to him" he would tell what he knew. After the two left Rickman's house they were seen going in the di-rection of the mountains, where the discovery of the charred bones was made. Rose has not since been seen in the neighborhood. It is believed that after succeeding in thus decoying the unsuspecting victim the brother-in-law killed him and burned the body to cover up the deed. There is an alarming amount of sickness throughout the Lincoln section, and the mortality among the negroes is fear-

It is supposed there is a large gang of robbers along the line of the Wilmington and Weldon road

Reports from various parts of the State are to the effect that the farmers find labor exceedingly scarce, and it is impossible on some farms to secure a sufficient number of hands to properly work the crops. SALISBURY.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch. SALISBURY, N. C., June 26th. According to announcement, as noted in my last letter, a formal call has been made and has been published for a meeting of the Board of Directors and stockholders of the railroad from this point to Wadesboro' to be held here on July 15th. It is thought that positive action will be taken to have the road completed at once. To-day is the first chance we have had to get news from the rain that fell Wednesday night. Such was the extent of it that the country people could not get to town to report an account of high water. Now that the water is subsiding something is being known. County Bridge-Commissioner Robinson says that out of the sixty-five county bridges more than one fourth are either washed away or very badly damaged. On Grant's creek alone five mill-dams are reported as washed away. Several others are reported lost in other portions of the county. Several mills are damaged and destroyed. Hundreds of acres of corn, wheat, oats, and hav are from one to ten feet under water and the damage cannot be estimated. There was but little wind with the rain. but the water seemed to fall in bucket-fuls Wednesday night. The rain did not extend over a very large area of the county, as in the southeast but little fell, most of it being along the line of the Richmond and Danville railroad and western portions of the county and in town. Trains are all on time, and no damage done to the track; yet the creeks simply overflowed, and as on Grant's creek the upper mill-dams washed away, the flood d everything before it to the Yadkin river. No suffering has occurrred or lives lost, but the damage to the crops and land from washing is very great. A very troublesome dysentery is infesting this section now, and is almost an epidemic. While it is bad, but few cases, either in town or the county,

SALISBURY'S GOVERNMENT. Probable Policy-Letting the Tories Down Ensy-Churchill Surprisingly Quiet - The Irish Question-Balfour's Speech. [By cable to the Dispatch.]

LONDON, June 27 .- The Tory gov.

ernment is skilfully feeling its way along. Even Lord Randolph Churchill has had the responsibility of the Gov-come prudent. Since his party

ernment thrust upon it the young orator has exhibited a surprising repressi-bility, and has judiciously held both his pen and his tongue. In view of the impatience of all Britons to know what the policy of the new Government is to be, all this is remarkable. The only Minister of the new Government who has up to date publicly addressed his constituents is Arthur James Balfour, Tory member of Parliament for Hertford borough, which he has represented since 1877. Balfour is but thirty-seven years of age, and is a son-in-law of the Marquis of Salis-bury, the new Prime Minister, whose private secretary the young man has long been. The selection of Balfour for the important office of Chief Secretary for Ireland must be looked upon as especially significant, because he knows better, perhaps, than any other person the inner views of Salisbury upon the whole Irish question, and is the only man who has ever been permitted by the present Premier to speak for him. Hence Balfour's speech has attracted profound attention. Before his advent to power Lord Salisbury was the most persistent advocate of coercion in Ireland. The very crisis which crowded his party into power found him actively engaged in opposing every tendency towards Liberalism in Ireland. Responsibility, however, has apparently tempered Salisbury's views on this important question, and he evidently shrinks from doing himself those things for abstinence from the performance of which he castigated the Gladstone Ministry. To use an Americanism, Salisbury feels the necessity of " letting the Tories down easy " on the question, and Balfour is pushed forward as the chief instrument in the lowering process. The most striking utterance in Balfour's address was the which Hunt returned to Mrs. Shelley, unqualified declaration that he "desires and which lies encased in silver in Bosnot less than Chamberlain to see Ireland combe Hall, the family seat. governed by equal laws with England. and to see all exceptional legislation against the Irish people forever abolished." The Radicals and Parnellites who worried the Liberal Ministry out of power never stated their wishes on this subject more tersely and fully. Not satisfied with this bold statement Balfour has just caused to be published for general circulation a brochure on the Irish question. In this the new Chief Secretary strongly supports home rule for Ireland, but contemts that this home rule shall extend to local interests only. His argument for this limit is favorite one of Tories-viz., that it is as necessary for the general welfare of Ireland itself as it is for the strategic security of Great Britain that in all national affairs the present state of dependence shall be maintained, and that all concessions to Ireland shall be based on the absolute maintenance of Ireland's imperial control. Another idea is elaborated in this brochurenamely, that in any new organization of the Government of Ireland the rights of the Irish Tories, such as the local minority in Ulster, must be respected and maintained. While it may be said that these statements lack definiteness, still it must be admitted that they indicate a remarkable change attitude in the Conservative feelings toward Ireland. Not only that, but there is an astonishing brood of Tory declarations of the same character as those made by Balfour. In fact, all the reports from the Conservative clubs and political circles show that Lord Randolph Churchill has become the prophet of the Tory party on the Irish question. His policy, which from all present indications will prevail with the present Government, favors the gradual replacement of the present machinery of the Vice-Regal Government at Dublin Castle by the formation of an elective central board to sit in Dublin and possess the power of dealing with all internal questions of the Government. Lord Salisbury has so far had but one interchange of views with a foreign Power on diplomatic questions. That was with M. Waddington, French Ambassador, and it related to the neverending Egyptian question. The interview was forced on the new Premier by the rush of official advices from the Khedive's dominion to the effect that anarchy practically exists in Egypt; that the Administration is exhausting the treasury and is openly hostile to English influence, and that this hostile influence is inspired by Borelli Bey, who is described as a powerful adviser. He is said to be the private editor of the Bosphore Egyptien, which was recently suppressed for the virulence of its attacks upon England. The protests of France secured rehabitation of the paper, and it is a "worse conspirator now than ever." Borelli Bey publicly holds frequent levees with all the Europeans hostile to England. To add to the general confusion, there is a war in Tewfik's harem. The vice-queen of the harem is actively interfering against the political movement organized to oppose the addition of an English palace to entourage of the Khedive. The Cairo correspondent of the Cologne Gazette, referring to the Egyptian finances and to the loan of $45,000,000 recently guaranteed by the Powers to settle the debts of the country, states that the sum will be found insufficient by at least $5,000,000. The English financial houses interested in Egyptian monetary affairs have been advised by their Cairo agents that the loan will fall short of the actual necessities of the case by a sum equal to $15,000,000.

The spirits of the Conservatives are cheered by the latest reports of their election agents, who are finding candidates throughout the provinces among the premising young men belonging to Whig families of great influence. These agents also report that large sums of money are being readily subscribed to defray the Conservative expenses in the coming campaign by gentle-men who hitherto have been strong supporters of the Liberal party.
All these reports go to show that there really exists in the country districts of England a strong feeling of detestation against the weak foreign policy and a lively desire to assist the Tories in any attempt they may make to restore the English prestige among the foreign Powers. The Conservative union is undoubtedly now thoroughly compact, and it is gaining adhesion from the Liberal ranks, both in the towns and in the country. The Tory chances are further increased by the growing distinctness of ference between the electoral cries verrary. Very little credence, however, is given to this report. The people who are acquainted with her Majesty's disposition to retain in her own hands the supreme control of both her family and State affairs smile at the idea that Queen Victoria will ever relinquish any power so long as she is in anywise able to exercise it. Court Talk says that the Queen's regret over the marriage of Princess Bea-trice deepens as the date of the event approaches. The departure of the incess Reatrice from the maternal home will certainly prove inconvenient to her Majesty in many material ways. The Princess saved her mother much State work, and mastered for her all State documents whose contents it was necessary for the Queen to be personally made acquainted with.

HEART OR LIVER? A Cucer Discussion Regarding the Poet

Thy cable to the Dispatch.] LONDON, June 27 .- The Athenoum raises a question of doubt as to whether the poet Shelley's heart really survived the cremation to which his body was subjected. It suggests, in support of its position, that Byron, Leigh, Hunt, and Trelawney, who identified the charred substance as the heart, were mistaken, and argues that in the cremation the heart, being hollow, is easily destroyed, while the liver, which is the most solid mass of the internal organs, resists the most intense heat. paper quotes a correspondent, who says that he has witnessed many cremations of the human body. He declares that has seen cremations completeeffected in seventy the Milan crematory by means Earl in the presence of the assembled Venonis's reverbarating furnace, guests knighted Secretary Kays and and in all these cases the liver endured for a considerable time that concentrated whirlwind of fire, remaining in- Prince and Princess of tact after the heart had totally disappeared. Proceeding from such data, the writer in the Athenoum points out that Shelley's liver was saturated with sea water, and was on that account more than nominally indsetructible, and maintains that Byron and Hunt, not being anatomists, easily mistook the shrunken remains of Shelley's liver for those of his heart, and that the former, and not the latter, it was

The Athenaum concludes by suggesting that an expert anatomist be permitted to examine the supposed heart for the purpose of determining scientifically whether the remains be really the poet's heart or his liver, both of which were equally useful to him while he lived, and both of which should be regarded as equally valuable still.

LONDON, June 27.—Rev. Mr. Spureen has produced a profound sensation by an article over his signature in today's Monthly Review. In this the great preacher narrates in detail the story of the death, last year, of Justice Williams in a brothel, and the disclosures brought out in the recent Jeffreys case. He makes these examples from high official life the basis of a full-flavored denunciation of English immorality, and he says: "Sodom in its most putrid days could scarce exceed London for vice. To our infinite disgust and horror, the names of the greatest in the land are openly mentioned in connection with the filthiest debauchery and most hideous evil that drags in the wake of These things are alleged to be the chosen luxury of certain hereditary legislators and rulers in England. YOUNG MAN HORSEWHIPPED. His Advances to a Pretty Chorus Girl Resent

A Bradford (Pa.) special says: Miss

Emma R. Steiner, directress and pianist of the " New York Standard Opera Company." was before Alderman Wheeler to-day on a charge of having last night assaulted with a horsewhip O. M. Smith, a suscepti-ble youth who hails from Lock Haven, Pa., where the troupe performed last week. Miss Steiner said that Smith fellowed the company to Bradford and was forcing his attentions upon Miss May Bruno, a pretty sixteen-year-old chorus singer. She says Smith insulted the girl, and having in her hand a cartwhip, one of the stage properties of "The Mascotte," Miss Steiner struck Smith with it once or twice over the shoulders. Seeing the weapon raised to strike him a third time Smith fled. Miss Steiner was bound over for trial the sum of $5,000, which was furnished by A. T. Newell. Smith says there is no truth in the charge of Miss Brono that he insulted her. He met ner in Lock Haven and paid her some attention. She intended to leave the company and remain in that city, but her friends finally prevailed on her to go with them. He said he came here on private business. and meeting her on the street walked to the Opera-House with her. She wanted him to buy her a bottle of brandy, and when she came out after the show she was angry at his not getting it. He denied having made any improper proposal to her.

Miss Steiner is the daughter of a
